Annual Report Issued After New Management's First Full Year

OUTLOOK BRIGHT

Prospects for Future Very Promising, President Ackerson Says

With the annual report of the Marion Steam Shovel Co. showing a net profit of $373,867.65 for the year ending Dec. 31, 1928, D. J. Ackerson, president, today declared that the business outlook for the company for the future was very promising particularly for the first half of this year.

Mr. Ackerson made this statement following the distribution of the annual report to stockholders of the company.

The company is now employing according to Mr. Ackerson, probably the largest force in the history of the company, more than 2,000 persons. Eighteen hundred of these are in the direct labor personnel. No radical changes in the working force of the company are anticipated the president said adding that while there may be some reduction in force it will take place only in those departments which are now overmanned and which may be operated more or less efficiently with fewer workers.

First Full Year

The report of the Marion Steam Shovel Co. has been eagerly awaited by stockholders the past year ending the first full year the company has been in the hands of the new management.

Deduction of all charges including depreciation and interest on funded debt and taxes was figured in arriving at the company's net profit of $373,867.65, according to the report.

The report also disclosed that $100,000 in bonds were retired during the year and that bonds purchased during the year and held in the treasury surplus amount to $241,000. Total amount of bonds now held in the treasury, the report discloses, is $595,000.

At the same time the annual report revealed that the dividend due on common stock April 1 1929, would not be declared.

Errors Corrected

In his report to the stockholders President Ackerson declared that when the physical inventory was taken Dec. 31, discrepancies were found between the physical and the book values. Analysis of this discrepancies Mr. Ackerson said, showed several errors of considerable magnitude.

Grach of Dover, Ohio, was thrown into the county jail at New Philadelphia charged with accepting bribe from liquor runners who smuggle it [illegible] through the southern Ohio city and [illegible] Rupert B. Crooked officials are the biggest handicap to prohibition law enforcement. I would rather catch one crooked public official than 100 bootleggers, Beetham declared.

Grach accepted $50 from Little Dobbs making a monthly arrangement. Grach has been making such arrangements with various liquor runners for two years the state prohibition director charged.

Held Without Bond

The seriousness of the charges is reflected in the fact that the mayor was ordered held without bond.

The complete story of Grach's arrest is told by Beetham in a United International News Service report as follows:

"A man came to my office two weeks ago asking why I did not clean up Dover. This man said he knew the mayor was accepting protection money.

I assigned Ed Little to investigate. Little is a former federal man and was the agent that led the drive in the clean up of Steubenville and Lancaster.

"Little went to Dover for me and met himself up as a dealer in various sweepers. Here Brothers smelled. Soon through various contacts Little became acquainted with the mayor and succeeded in arranging protection at the cost of $50. Monthly dividends were to be given to the mayor. Little used marked money, and this money was found on Grach.

"When Little informed me I ordered him to throw Grach in jail and to see that he was held without bond. John Grach, Steubenville ex-officer, assisted Little."

Beetham said that the finding of 500 gallons of whisky in a Ford car [illegible]

Week-end Profit-taking Stops Advance of Market

SITUATION IN MONEY CIRCLES IS SERIOUS

Wall Street Looks for Increase in Rediscount Rate

500,000 SHARES SOLD

Bears Gun for "Soft Spots" in Highly Inflated Leaders

NEW YORK, March 22—... stocks started the day at ... prices. The bulls tried to celebrate the maintenance of the five per cent rediscount rate the federal bank here, but against this was the fact that brokers loan had increased $166,000,000 in a week, calling down the wrath of the reserve bank heads on the stock market.

The coppers, oils and motors recorded one to 2½ point in early trading from yesterday's close; but in most cases the improvement went no farther, as week-end profit-taking forced prices downward. Trading in the first half hour was only slightly above 500,000 shares.

Wall Street believes that another boost in rediscount bank rates can not be much longer postponed, and from now until the end of the month the money market will be under a severe test.

The market drifted to lower price levels in the second hour. The bears went gunning for the "soft spots" in the highly inflated industrial and specialty stocks. At 52 1-2 International Nickel was down three points for the day and 20 points from the high of the month.

The passing of old Radio stock, one of the biggest speculative sensations of all time, was partly offset by the starting of new market capers by Baldwin Locomotive, which crossed 270, for the first time, completing a gain of 40 points for the week. Split-up of the shares, broadly whispered in the financial district, is responsible for the increased interest in the stock at this time.

The commodity markets were slightly irregular, with cotton up about 10 points and grain fractionally lower. Call money was unchanged at 9 per cent.

TODAY'S REVIEW OF YESTERDAY'S GRAIN

CHICAGO, March 22—Local grain prices held in a narrow range yesterday in the quietest session that has been witnessed in some time. Wheat was lower and held within good buying support on the dips and meeting opposition from local selling and realizing on all bulges. Corn was firmer on reports of export business and the improved shipping demand.

Closing prices for wheat showed net losses for the day of 1¼@1⅝c. Corn was unchanged to ⅜c higher, oats steady to ½c better, and rye was 1¼@⅜c lower. Winnipeg wheat futures closed ¾@⅞c lower.

Wheat Traders Cautious

Wheat trading yesterday appeared to be largely a matter of watchful waiting. The general run of news was not impressive and commission houses and local traders were on both sides of the market in a mixed trade. About the only aggressive action on either side was the good buying early by a house with eastern connections whose crop observer had wired a bullish report from Kansas.

Sentiment was still rather bearish, but there was no disposition to press the market. Prices are down about 6c from the high and there has been little bearish news that has not been known for some time. On the other hand, the bulls appeared to be waiting for some new angle on which to base further purchases.

Business at Liverpool, which was steady to ¼d lower at the close, and the forecast for rain over much of the belt, seemed to be mainly responsible for the slightly lower prices. Crop advices continued mixed, but generally remarked a growing need for moisture.

Corn was the subject of increased trading interest compared with the activity of the past few weeks. There were reports early, which went unconfirmed, that the recent break in prices had brought export business. The principal incentive to purchases was the improved cash situation with a sharply increased demand.

Big Corn Shipping Sales

Shipping inquiry was very good for the second consecutive day, and sales reported up to the close totaled 292,000 bu. This included 150,000 bu sold late Wednesday to go to Buffalo, all rail. The latter was considered especially bullish, being construed as indicative of need for corn in the East when shipment is to be made all rail with navigation to open in three weeks.

Country offerings continued light, with 35,000 bu. reported booked, including 15,000 bu. from Milwaukee.

In the cash market wheat was unchanged to 1c higher, corn steady, oats steady to ⅜c better, rye dull and barley steady.

Cars inspected: Wheat, 26; corn, 105; oats, 25; rye, 8, and barley, 12.

BAKE SALE PLANNED

Plans were made for a bake sale May 1, when members of Circle No. 1, Ladies' Aid society of Epworth M. E. church met for an all-day quilting party at the church Wednesday. Fifteen members were present. A short business session and social time followed the sewing period. A potluck dinner was served at the noon hour. April 24 the circle will meet with Mrs. S. C. Green, Thew av.

Today in Marion Markets

Groceries, Produce, Meats, Grain, Livestock

Bean prices are higher now than for several years, quotations ranging several cents higher on Marion markets this week. Last year saw a shortage in the bean crop but this year, the scarcity is even more pronounced. All dry beans are now scarce and high priced.

Lima beans, soup beans, marrofat beans and red kidney beans are among the varieties affected. With the market going to higher levels the favorite "nickel dish" of the restaurant may bring a higher price soon.

Last year the shortage resulted in the price of navy soup beans reaching the unusual price of two pounds for 25 cents. This year the price has gone to two pounds for 27 cents. Prices on other varieties are correspondingly high. It is seen likely that these high prices will be maintained during the year.

The increase in prices does not affect fast 120 green bean market, such as strings beans. They will market at practically their normal prices this year if no unexpected blight strikes the crop.

Daily Proverb— The love of power is natural, insatiable and never clogged by possession.

It's mighty hard to understand how the Washington police can even so much as hope to dry up the capital and make it an example to the nation under the dual handicap of diplomatic and legislative immunity.

A Washington despatch says that Senator William E. Borah will lead the fight in the senate against the entrance of the United States into the World court. We know nothing of the facts in the matter, but the thing on its face looks mighty reasonable.

Isn't there grave danger that our government's course in granting Mexican combatants sanctuary and at the same time feeding them is liable to encourage the revolution business down there, which, as it is, couldn't possibly pass as an infant industry.

A Princeton professor seriously discusses the possibility that chemists may synthesize the firefly's oil and cause a "living light" to be the lamp of the future. Now if the chemists could synthesize some bug's heating apparatus to supply heat, what a time we could have joshing the Logan Gas people.

The arrest of the driver of a truck which was loaded with $00 wreaths disclosed that stealing wreaths from cemeteries has become a regular business up in Chicago. There's no use denying that when it comes to business initiative, those Chicagoans are right up and doing.

A Ford tri-motored plane, similar to that which crashed Sunday at Newark, New Jersey, was given three tests, Wednesday, under conditions as nearly identical as possible with those faced by the wrecked plane, and stood them splendidly without mishap of any kind. Who knows? It may have been the human element which was at fault?

Income tax receipts for the first sixteen days of the collection period this month exceed the collections of the same period last year by $18,000,000. Treasury officials hold that the increase speaks volumes for lower rates, but it's not wholly outside the range of possibility that it means an elevation of the public conscience.

Nothing Dramatic or Sensational.

We believe that President Hoover struck a popular chord in the public feeling, this week, when he let it be known that he is not given to dramatics or sensationalism. No doubt the word coming from Washington carried little that was pleasing to the fanatical, whose hopes had been buoyed by published reports that he was planning a drastic drive to enforce the prohibition law, and that his chief purpose in seeking a special commission was that it might devise special ways and means to make the drive the more effective.

Judging Mr. Hoover by his past, the announcement that he was planning such a drive as reported was not convincing. While his accomplishments in the past have been many and great, it will not be recalled that he ever went about with a brass band and told about them in advance, for the very simple reason that he never did anything of the kind. His record has been one of delivering the goods without any preliminary advertising, and letting the public find out about it, as it might.

And there is another reason why the report was open to doubt. From all Mr. Hoover's utterances on the subject, as the Republican nominee, as president-designate, president-elect and president, it might be seen that he was committed to a policy of law enforcement generally, to the enforcement of law rather than to the enforcement of some particular law to which all other laws were to be subrogated. And that is as it should be. We have been specializing far too much in recent years in law enforcement—so much, indeed, that some of our laws in the eyes of many have acquired a degree of importance beyond what they really possess. It's not a good thing to lose our sense of proportion in the matter of law enforcement any more than it is good to lose it in regard to anything else.

The president has made plain that his purpose in seeking a special commission is that it may, without prejudice, investigate our systems of jurisprudence and law enforcement, generally, looking to the strengthening of the federal courts and the better enforcement of all laws. He seeks to discover, through the investigation of the commission, just what is wrong with the courts and the law and the agencies in being for the enforcement of the law.

That there is something wrong is generally recognized. Mr. Hoover wants to know what it is, that steps may be taken to correct conditions and bring the country back to law-observance.

Raid on United States Line.

When the Chapman interests begin to take over the various units of the United States and American Merchant lines, and particularly the cabin ships of the former, they will find that they have a war on their hands, a war as annoying as it is unique. They will have brought home to them that many of their highest class stewards, the stewards who have done so much to win fame for the service of the United States Line, are no longer with them, and they will be hard put to fill their places with anything like stewards of the ability of those missing.

The North German Lloyd is to put its two big liners, the Europa and the Bremen, into service in July. Naturally, with vessels representing the last word in passenger ship attractiveness, that line wanted stewards of the highest class, and it seems that it has secured them through the missionary work of the line's agents here in the United States at the expense of the United States line's cabin ships.

Whereas the average pay of a steward is about $21 a month, the North German Lloyd people offered the best of the United States line's stewards, all of whom speak English from their service with the latter line as well as their native German—for most of them are of German birth and have taken out their first naturalization papers only—double what they were getting. At the same time it was pointed out to them that, though they could not be with their families for so long lay-offs between boats, they could see them far more frequently, and that their earnings would be many times what they are making at present for the double reason that the two new German liners would make far more trips and that the prices of passages on them would be so much higher than those on the slower cabin boats that their tips would be two or three times what they are now.

It may be said that a passenger is expected to pay out in tips an amount equal to ten per cent. of the cost of his ticket. Should a man and his wife take a stateroom with bath on the America, it may be said by way of illustration, the two one-way tickets would cost $110, which would mean they would give to stateroom, dining-room, deck, social-hall, smoking-room, writing-room and bath stewards, under ordinary conditions, tips aggregating at least $11. If they took many meals on deck or by reason of sickness required extra service, they would be expected to pay those giving them the extra service larger tips. Now on the big new German ships accommodations of similar class, though somewhat more elaborate, would cost not less than $1,000, and thus the expected tips would aggregate $100 or more. It was an appealing proposition. Over twice as big tips and half again as many trips. And to clinch the matter, the Germans offered to begin paying them at once although their two new liners are not to go into service for almost four months.

The Leviathan is little affected by the German raid on the line's stewards for the reason that its schedule of prices is as high as that of the German ships. It will make as many trips and there isn't any vessel afloat where stewards fare better than they do on the Leviathan. It is doubtful if the tips paid on it, owing to the well-known American tendency to over-tip, are not higher than on any other vessel afloat. But the George Washington, the America and the Republic, the three crack cabin ships of the United States line, are facing a stiff proposition and to meet it are paying some of their stewards as high as $75 a month—pay heretofore unthought of at sea. And what the Germans' campaign has done to the lists of stewards of the less attractive cabin ships of the line, the President Harding and the President Roosevelt, can hardly be conjectured although, on form, they should be hit even harder than the three larger and finer cabin ships of the line.

It's hardly what might be termed a pleasing introduction to the Chapman people's invasion of the shipping industry.

Advices from Czechoslovakia are to the effect that thousands have been rendered homeless there by the worst flood in the memory of the oldest inhabitant. Pretty much the same story has been coming from all parts of the world. It is evident that old Mother Nature isn't playing any favorites.

It has been discovered that the authorities of a South African town have been burying paupers in a coffin with a sliding bottom, which, being removed, permits the body to remain in the grave and the coffin to be retrieved for future use. It is evident that the thrift of the world is not confined to Scotland.

There were 1,959,000 births in Canada in the period from 1921 to 1928, and 962,000 immigrants entered the country, which should have given her a population of 10,863,000 despite the 821,000 deaths during the period, but she has a population of only 9,655,000, indicating a shrinkage of 1,210,000 people. The odd phase of the thing is that the bootleggers can garner the coin up there where there is abundant moisture just as they do when they come down here where the country is dry.

Three professors of the University of Missouri who sent out sex questionnaires on decidedly intimate subjects to co-eds are now out of their jobs. Service on right. People are being imprisoned for mailer offenses against the peace of mankind than the sending out of the average questionnaire on any subject from a so-called seat of learning.

Report has the throne of Roumania offered to Prince Carol with permission to bring back his red-headed woman companion and install her in a palace not as the queen, but as the "king's mistress." The democracy vaccine seemingly didn't take over in Europe so well as anticipated when resort to such measures as this are utilized to preserve the monarchial form of government.

Kissing Baby Dangerous.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

"Do not kiss me. I don't want to get sick."

Newark, New Jersey, has a sensible health commissioner. He is my friend, Dr. Charles V. Craster, who is ever alert to maintain the health and well being of his city and all its citizens.

Commissioner Craster has worried over the dangerous spread of colds, pneumonia and other diseases of the breathing organs of children. He is determined to do everything humanly possible to spare the innocents.

What do you suppose this progressive man purposes doing? He is going to send to every baby born in Newark a bib printed with the warning I quoted: "Don't kiss me. I do not want to get sick."

All the old fogies will laugh at this. Too many persons who should know better, will laugh at it. But everybody who realizes the infectious or contagious possibilities of colds and other diseases of the breathing apparatus, won't laugh. They will wonder why somebody didn't do such a thing long, long ago. Bravo, Dr. Craster!

I doubt if anybody in the world loves babies more than I do. I am positively rude at times, stooping over a baby carriage to get a glimpse of a sweet, smiling baby. It is a sight for sore eyes!

Of course you want to kiss the baby. I wanted to kiss mine and I am afraid I did, too many times. But I know better now.

There is not so much business nowadays for the old-time cowboy, with his pistols and aggressiveness. I can suggest a real place for the cowboy, however, a place more important than the one he filled so well a generation ago. Let's put him on guard to keep the babies from being kissed!

Do you know that a man with a hard cold or the influenza, who sneezes in a crowded street car and fails to cover his face—do you know that he is really more dangerous than a man with a loaded pistol? If a crazy man fired one shot into a street car he might inflict a painful wound, but his chance of killing somebody is not nearly so good as the sneezer has.

"Droplet infection," that is the infection from the infected secretions of a person with an infectious disease of nose, throat or lungs, is a real menace to the public health. Kissing a dear little baby by such a person should be made a state's prison offense.

If you must kiss the baby, kiss the top of the head, or the back of the neck. By the way, that's a fine place to plant a kiss. That sort of a kiss may tickle enough to make the baby laugh and it won't do any harm. But, I beg of you, don't kiss the baby on the mouth.

If the baby could think and talk and knew the significance of it, I am sure it would say in no uncertain tones: "Don't kiss me. I don't want to be sick."

Editorial Opinion.

THE AMBASSADORS' LIQUOR SUPPLIES.

The seizure by the Washington police of sixty cases of liquor consigned to the Siamese legation raises an interesting and possibly a serious question of international comity as well as international law. Under the law of nations it has always been regarded as essential to the maintenance of intercourse between nations that ambassadors and ministers plenipotentiary be absolutely independent of the authority of the state in which they reside. Accordingly, the residence of such a minister is regarded as foreign territory, not subject to the laws of the country, and he himself is exempt from the criminal and civil jurisdiction of the country, an exemption that extends to his family, to the employes and servants of the legation.

There is a law of the United States which declares void any writ or process of court, state or national, under which the person of any public minister of a foreign state, "or any servant of such a minister, is arrested or imprisoned, or his goods or chattels are destroyed, seized or attached," and any one concerned in such an arrest or seizure is declared a "violator of the law of nations" and subject to heavy penalties. Whether this law applies to the case in question is not yet decided, but if it does not apply it should be at once so amended as to make it apply to such cases.

The prohibition law does not differ from any other domestic law in that it does not and can not affect the persons or the goods or chattels of foreign ministers. To interfere with their personal supplies in transit is plainly a violation of international law, and if not stopped would occasion serious and justified protests from other governments, embarrassing to our government and hurtful to our interests. Such seizures can not possibly help prohibition enforcement and can but add to its difficulties.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

UNDIVIDED ALLEGIANCE.

The national commander of the American legion, addressing a New Jersey audience on St. Patrick's day, spoke of the divided loyalty of many naturalized citizens, with excusable vehemence. As a consequence of our liberality in the matters of immigration and naturalization, we have taken to our national bosom thousands of foreign-born, whose spiritual assimilation has been imperfect. They are still loyal in their hearts to the flag under which they were born. They are the unfortunate by-products of a system that has given us millions of naturalized citizens, whose political rebirth has been complete and whose allegiance to the United States is unchallengable.

As Commander McNutt said, we need stricter enforcement of the existing immigration laws. What is more, we need stricter immigration laws and stricter naturalization laws. We have been entirely too free in the past in admitting aliens both to our shores and to participation in the processes of our government. We have learned a lesson with regard to immigration. We have yet to learn that of naturalization.

When we have tightened up those approaches to citizenship, we shall be in a better position to say to the strangers within our gates: "You may live here and work as aliens, as long as you obey our laws; but you must not expect to have a part in shaping our institutions through the ballot until you can show that your change of allegiance is whole-hearted and without mental reservation." As far as those are concerned, who have already been naturalized, while preserving an invisible allegiance to other countries, we can not do more than keep an eye on them.—Detroit Free Press.

New York hostesses are unable to set the dinner hour later than 7 o'clock. Those who have fixed the hour at 8 or 8:30 face a "strange interlude." The few who came had to be helped over the door sills, and a messy evening resulted. Earlier cocktail parties among guests are responsible for the derelictions, and the later the dinner, the fewer the guests, if any. One gentleman, touched by a continentalism, moved up his dinner to 9:30. Out of forty guests, three, which included a deaf maiden aunt from Vermont, arrived. "The others," sighed the host, "either acquired unconsciousness or new ideas."

The Italian quarter on the north fringe of Chinatown has resulted in mixed marriages between Italians and Chinese. And girls become what are known as "chink-wops"—wives of Chinese and moved into Chinatown. Those who oppose the domestic intermingling admit, however, the Chinaman is a good husband if he does not become an addict of the opium pipe. In such cases he usually makes an addict of his wife. There are, it is said, some 200 white wives of Chinese in the spidery streets running off Chatham square. Once settled, they rarely leave the quarter, and a number are able to converse fluently in Chinese.

Nothing—not even a camel smell—is left to remind New York of old Madison Square garden. A thirty-four-story building of a life insurance company occupies the historic site. Fast Talking and Poor Talk.

BY GARRETT P. SERVISS.

A New York shorthand expert says [illegible] Americans are talking faster at the rate [illegible] ten words per minute every twenty years, regards this as proof of a gain in [illegible] speed of thinking, though thought usually [illegible] ahead of expression. But, however [illegible] this may seem to the American brain, it does no credit to the American spoken language. Too many of us are clipping words, [illegible] syllables, omitting consonants or vowels and thus making our speech resemble the [illegible] of barbarians. Our language is the richest in the world, built up by the efforts of many of the greatest thinkers that have lived within a thousand years, and it is worth more respect and care than it receives from the majority of those who speak it.

As long as we have cars we must [illegible] the most of our exchange of thought [illegible] spoken words. If we are to talk faster, faster, not only must our organs of [illegible] be progressively improved, but our [illegible] must become more acute. So far is the [illegible] requisite from being met, that the fact seems to be that partial deafness is increasing. [illegible] talking can not of course be charged [illegible] causing this, but it aggravates the evil. [illegible] there is nothing so confusing to the [illegible] of dull hearing as rapidity of utterance. [illegible] you have to talk to a "deaf" person don't shout, but speak deliberately with clear enunciation of syllables.

Of course, if the main object of [illegible] were what it seems to be at many assemblages of women, viz., to have everybody talk at once, and as fast as possible, so as to fill the common ear with—more or less—harmony of sweet sounds, then we might well go on increasing the tongue rate up to a thousand words per minute. There would be more sound and not less sense exchanged. But I believe that the number of people still very large, who love their language and employ it for other purposes than speed speeding. They admire it for its quality, its music, its symmetry, its logical structure. The soul of poetry is in all speech. There is a stanza in every syllable. By their correct enunciation and proper accentuation the syllables combine to make a little poem of the word. Word poems are innumerable. Most nouns are such to instructed minds. Peru, Rome, Athens, rose, snow, summer, jasmine, galleon, gondola, argosy. And there are many abstract words and verbs, especially participles—flying, sailing, loving, rowing, seeking, battling—every one can call forth a poetic atmosphere that enriches the sense of the word however it may be employed.

Who has not been thrilled at the wedding of sound and thought in the enunciation of particular words by great actors or orators? These jewels of speech should not be dulled and jumbled into incoherent sounds even in ordinary usage. There has lately arisen a new occupation which affords the public a striking example of the power that lies in the perfect use of English speech. I refer to the radio announcer. Some of these might delight the ears of Demosthenes by the roundness beauty of their full-spoken words. They give an apparently unheeded lesson to many of the speakers and singers who assail the public over the radio.

No doubt an influence upon the habits of speech is exercised by a certain impatience of business with the amenities. Industry and commerce bring wealth and luxury, but in spite of that they injure the finer arts of life. A single words proves it—"standardization." This is the direst enemy that the spirit of man ever had. A kind of machine chopped language grows up in the factories, the power plants, the power centers, and the laboratories. This spreads outside and readily affiliates with slang. Another stream of accelerated and cropped language joins from the whirlpool of trade. And, worst of all, a fashion comes in and puts its up-to-date stamp on many of the linguistic atrocities. When people deliberately drag their mother tongue through the dirt, what have they left to distinguish them above their speechless forebears? — Copyright, 1929, International Feature Service, Inc.

The Way of the World.

BY GROVE PATTERSON.

Amiel, famous for his journal, said: "He who ceases to grow greater becomes smaller; the stationary condition is the beginning of the end."

To rest up and take it easy is well enough for a limited period. People who decide they have done enough or got enough and make up their mind to rest and take it easy permanently, have done much worse than they think. They haven't adopted a settled and stationary condition. They have started back. The garden of the mind can't be let alone and remain beautiful. It has to be cultivated.

A building with a beautiful front, but lacking in sound construction, top, bottom and rear, and faulty in foundation, will soon be found out by the tenants. It is a fake and a false pretention. An automobile that is all paint and no performance will soon be found out by the driver. Material things that are false don't "get by" very long. How is it that people who are all front and have no foundation, either in intellectual equipment or character, expect to go far without being found out? A good front is an asset for any man, but it can't last and it isn't even worth having if there is no sound construction behind it.

Said John Burroughs: "One fault I find with our younger and more promising group of novelists is that their aim is too obvious; we feel they are striving mainly for artistic effects. Do we feel this at all in Scott Fitzgerald, Hawthorne or Tolstoi? Those men are not thinking about art but about life—how to produce life."

Something like the thing Burroughs had in mind must have occurred to many [illegible] ing occasional examples of modern [illegible] tuz. There seems to be an attempt on the part of the writer to produce a striking effect of words. He tries to do tricky things with language. He seeks to register with a [illegible] instead of trying simply and naturally to tell the reader about his goods.

Are we not more impressed by artistry which is simple and direct and [illegible] truthful than we are by tricky phrases?

Years -- Billions of Them -- Before Cold Descends To Freeze Away Life's Vestiges

INGTON March 22—Be all d astronomical equa earth is yet destined ars of existence be- descend as the glaciers zone slowly creeping, away the last vestiges life from the knowledge of al past—from the beginning of the de uments are ab rata began to fall—the possibility is remote but that the earth will in sun thing but meet a natural end.

The hieroglyphic story left on the rocks of the past, on the mountains, the deep sea bottom and the story told by te lava out of the volcanoes and the earth shakes is not one of an unchanging Cosmos, but of a gigantic growing and living celestial body constantly changing form that inevitably hurling its way through space until it is dead—cold and desolate as the moon.

Sudden Termination

But there are possibilities—greatly remote but yet existent—that before these billions of years cool the earth and still all living beings—there will come a sudden termination of life.

These were outlined today by Dr William Lowie eminent scientist of the U. S. coast and geodetic survey. Dr. Lowie said:

If the earth should move very far away from the sun or go suffocatingly hot rain would cease or would be confined greatly and continents might be so changed as to make life impossible. Our observations however show no indication of any material change in the yearly average distance between the sun and the earth.

The end of the solar system is a subject merely for speculation and not for scientific proving. Even the work of the greatest astronomers in learning of conditions existing in the various stars tell us little of a body as small as the earth. They deal with stars larger than our sun—and it would require 1,400,000 earths to make the volume of the sun. This would indicate that the earth is an exceedingly small celestial body merely a great rock out in space rather than one of the major units of the universe.

Too Stable to Explode

It would be difficult to visualize how anything within the earth could make it liquify or explode. The earth is too old, too stable.

Nor does it appear that any disturbance caused by the passage near the earth of some other heavenly body could do more than distort a portion of the surface, or cause tremendous ocean tides.

Of course a condition such as that might destroy life but it would seem that when the disturbance passed the earth would still be the same size and shape.

Since we have had conditions almost similar for over a billion years there is no reason for supposing that conditions might arise on the earth in the next 100,000,000 or billion years that could destroy life unless some wandering celestial body might pass close to us. Such an eventuality is so remote that it need be given no serious consideration.

No Dangerous Neighbors

The nearest star to the solar system is about 4.3 light years away and according to Prof. Henry Norris Russell of Princeton only six stars are nearer than 10 light years. Therefore we have no dangerous neighbors.

It is reasonably certain that after the radium the material of the earth supplies to change of form there will be no increase in heat from that interior source. Naturally with that loss of heat the earth will begin to cool.

After billions of years no doubt the earth will become colder. It may be that the frigid zones will encroach on the temperate regions and the equatorial belt will become habitable for the last part of the world to be inhabited.

Hoover Finds Selection of Crime Commission Big Problem

JUDICIALLY-MINDED MEMBERS NEEDED

100 Names on Desk of President, 11 Will Be Named

DRY LAW MAIN ISSUE

Hopes To Have Membership Complete Before Congress Meets

BY GEORGE R HOLMES
Marion Star Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, March 22—Picking a cabinet was a tough job but President Hoover has found one equally as difficult and possibly even more trying It is the task of selecting the men who are to compose his commission to investigate the causes of and the remedies for the widespread lawlessness that has sprung up in the wake of prohibition

He devoted a lot of time to considering the make up of this commission while still a president elect and since his entry into the White House it has occupied more of his attention than any other single problem

100 Names on List

After weeks of consultations and investigations there still remain on his desk nearly 100 names, from which the nine or 11 will be chosen Some decisions are understood to have been reached, but the personnel still is far from complete He hopes to announce it shortly before the new congress convenes

Hughes

Mr Hoover had hoped to persuade Charles Evans Hughes to head the commission That hope is now understood to have been abandoned Hughes sails for Europe on May 1 to take up his duties as a judge of the World Court

Prohibition Main Issue

While the commission will be formed to investigate all kinds of lawlessness Mr Hoover realizes—and so does Capitol Hill Washington—that in the final analysis it comes down principally to prohibition Therein lies the difficulty He hopes to present a commission of judicially minded persons who have not been identified with either side of the bitter wet and dry argument that has been going on now for nearly 10 years It is no easy task to find such impartial minded people who have been neutral on the question of prohibition and who at the same time are big enough to inspire the respect and confidence of the public generally

If he appoints outstanding prohibitionists the wet investigation at once loses caste and affords the so-called liberals the opportunity to say that the commission is packed and that prohibition is being investigated by its friends

Risks Divided Report

If he appoints outstanding wets there will be loud and immediate washing by the professional dry the Anti-Saloon League, the W C T U and the various church organizations

If he judiciously mixes em up appointing both wets and drys, then he risks the possibility of a divided commission and a divided report which might leave him right where he started

As was the case with some of his cabinet selections, Mr Hoover is again consulting members of the United States supreme court in the matter Chief Justice Taft and Associate Justice Stone who are credited with having made William D Mitchell attorney general are both understood to have offered suggestions and advice

Washington considers it fairly certain that one member of the commission is to be Robert H Huntington dean of the Yale law school

Strawn, Pepper Considered

Silas Strawn the Chicago lawyer is another likely possibility, although he has frankly expressed himself as believing that lawlessness is inherent and inescapable in the Volstead law Former Senator George Wharton Pepper of Pennsylvania is another whose name is on the list Pepper is an Episcopalian high in the councils of the church

Dry organizations have submitted a number of names most of which probably will be weeded out for obvious reasons

The president has two assistants checking up on the various names and records Just work will not be completed for about two weeks Meanwhile the weeding out proceeds apace

time had been made in the cost accounting system These errors he said have since been corrected He added that another inventory would be taken June 30

The present statement on the year is based on a complete physical inventory of all finished machines work in process spare parts and materials all inventories having been written down to cost or market whichever was lower

These errors were explained by Mr Ackerson today when he stated that shortly after the present management took over the plant it installed what it considered a proven cost accounting system

A standard cost system is maintained and it was in the local operation of this cost chart that errors crept in

Cost Above Expectations

It also has been revealed according to Mr Ackerson that in the development and marketing of new types of large shovels the cost incident thereto has been greater than was expected In the words of the report the margin of profit on these shovels has consequently been below that which was estimated

As a result of the errors in the cost accounting, reports which disclosed upon the taking of the physical inventory the anticipated net profit of the company was chopped from about $600,000 to $37 861

With these figures and facts before them the board of directors Mr Ackerman said, agreed that the dividend for April should be passed the net earnings not justifying the withdrawal of dividend money from the company's surplus With the passing of the dividend which is only on the common stock and not on the preferred the surplus is permitted to build up

Reduction Effected

Mr Ackerson's report also disclosed that during the year slow moving inventory was reduced by more than $1,000,000 Improvements in plant administration have been going forward it is stated and it is expected that as a result manufacturing costs for 1929 will be lower

Orders received last year were greater than in any preceding year, the report asserts and adds that unfilled orders on hand are considerably above normal

Interest in the local company's operations has been high especially in the reports on the concern's stock which went to a high of about 5b A sharp drop preceded the annual meeting of the director the stock going down to 10 Yesterday the stock stood at 3– when the market closed

RESCUERS PRESS ON INTO WRECKED MINE

Known Death Toll of Explosion Mounts to 28, 21 Identified

Tait Taylor and others in charge of rescue operations were determined to press forward into the unexplored sections as rapidly as possible spurred on by the hope that lives of some miners may be sustained for a while longer if they are not already dead

Clamor for View

If there are any more in there alive said Taylor no time is to be wasted We must make every effort to reach them immediately and that is just what we are doing We hope to have every part of the mine explored before noon

There were few emotional displays when the recovered bodies were carried up the long tier of steps through the main entry from the bottom of the Mine clamored at the temporary quarters of state police for a pass that would enable them to view the dead

Tears welled up in the eyes of several but this cannot be said of the majority They represent the families of laborious coal miners who should and do know better than any others the hazards of this occupation

Nerves Are Steeled

Most of them are fatalists They believe that if they must die in such a disaster as this there is little they can do to forestall fate So their nerves are steeled to meet the occasion stoically

When their beloved dead have been recovered from below the earth's surface and after the last rites of their church given back to the earth once more and forever these bereaved have a far greater task to perform the rearing of the fatherless families Most of the victims were married and had large families

Many members of the rescue teams sitting about the top of the mine awaiting orders to go below are men who forced their way out of the explosion wrecked mine through the adjoining abandoned Valley Camp mine From them came many tales of heroism and of suffering They told of the finding of the Oliver boys Charles 19 and Williams 32 dead by their brother David Jr locked in each others arms It was only a slight illness that probably saved their father David from a similar fate William left four fatherless children

WHAT TERRIBLE EVIL LAY BEHIND ITS MASK?

BY HERMAN LANDON

TEN

H was cool as if frozen into stone. Mr Peters did not like the sound of a fly buzzing itself against a grass screen but he did not notice it. It was the deliberate silence that filled him with a weird and overwhelming expectancy. He was here—in this house—to murder a man, said Mr Peters.

Would you like to go to bed? But of course you would feel. You shall.

A white smooth hand moved about in the house a peaceful house.

It awakened a tremor in a darkened mind but still he did not stir.

There was a dismal awareness in the instant that followed his sense. Go to bed. Then it was true! His victim was alive! But what was

Peters was talking—talking in a low and unfamiliar tongue. He appeared to be talking to

Gradually Hannan became aware that another person had entered the room and was now standing near him. The other person must have stood very silently for he had not heard a sound. He did not turn to look at the newcomer. Mr Peters stared into the sibilant forest, and experienced a curious mesmerism of the senses. They formed pictures in the mind—green shadows in sunlit areas, gleaming brown trunks of fronded palms, a riot of the most fantastic shapes of the most extraordinary nature—

The picture faded away. It was as if he had been suddenly released from the spell of some overpowering influence. He understood every word the man was saying. The import of the speech seemed to leap upon him like a living, poisonous thing. He leaped sideways, but fingers that possessed the strength of a gorilla closed on his throat. The room grew black. There was a choking, maddening torture in his throat. Now he was being lifted off his feet—

The room was still again. Mr Peters had not moved as the table. Now above the noise he could hear his heart as it began to catch up with a remote sound. It was the soft, tuneless whistling of a farmer at work in his old familiar accustomed fashion.

He looked at his watch. Half an hour had passed. He seized himself from a sort of bewilderment.

It might be over by now. He must attend to the little matters for me. Could never do it myself. Moral coward—taints it. But Papa—intelligent fellow for a Malay. Does everything he is told and does it right. He uttered a little. Well it is done. As the great Horace might have remarked—

The door opened. A huge man with a Teutonic cast of face said a few words in his native tongue. He put a few articles on the table in front of Mr Peters and withdrew.

Mr Peters lighted a cigaret and stared at the articles. Papa had placed on the table—a knife with a curiously wrought handle, a pair of horn-rimmed spectacles, a watch, a cuff link, a few silver coins.

Papa forgets nothing. He must have removed Hannan's possessions from the body of the man he had just killed. He must have taken very silently for he had not heard a sound. He did not turn to look at the newcomer. Mr Peters stared into the sibilant forest, and experienced a curious mesmerism of the senses. The Heart Story of a Woman's Lasting Affections

BY ADELE GARRISON

Noel Is Warmed Comforted by the Household

HARLEY UNDERWOOD did not wait for the communication of questions from Noel. With rough kindness he grasped the boy by the arm

You'll have a fine bout with pneumonia if you linger around here much longer he said. You're blue and shivering with cold now. Come into the house at once. There's a good fire. We're keen sitting up chumming and there'll be hot coffee in a jiffy or I'm greatly mistaken in the charming chatelaine of the farmhouse. Ah! Jim as that dependable guardian came from the direction of the house. Will you put up the car. Every thing's set.

Yes sir. Not a sound sir.

Oh Noel said in a low but tense voice as Jim climbed into the car then there was something—you've been waiting here—did they try to get Mary.

Mr Underwood's voice was as masterful as the movement with which he was propelling Noel toward the house although his words held his usual note of burlesque.

Batten down the hatches boy" he said. All questions barred for the next half hour. My good friend here has just told you that Mary's all right and you heard the faithful henchman put his official O. K. on the subject. So say no more. Did say no more."

The boy was too near collapse to be anything but submissive and he was silent while Mr Underwood rushed him up the steps and into the library where Lilian was standing near the fireplace in which flames were leaping from snapping fagots heaped around a great log.

Ah h! Lillian's husband grinned appreciatively at her as he deftly steered Noel to the chair nearest the fire and put him into it. I knew the wife of me eart would keep the home fires burning for me and my pals—and gals—he threw a mischievous wink in my direction.

But Lillian was paying no attention to him. She had taken a quick look at Noel and then moved swiftly toward the kitchen. I followed her glance and saw that the boy was shaking with a chill.

There's about a cup of coffee left hot she said and as I followed her I drew Mr Underwood's attention to a blanket at the head of the couch kept there for Mother Graham's use. Mr Underwood strode forward at once and was wrapping it around Noel as I went into the hall.

Lillian was pouring the coffee into a cup as I entered the kitchen.

That must be awful he now I said with the dislike of a coffee drinker for anything save the freshly made beverage.

It is she returned but it's piping hot and that's the necessary thing just now. You can rustle some fresh if you like. I put a kettle of water on a few minutes ago and it's just boiling.

She took up the cup of hot coffee and I hastily prepared a fresh pot putting some little cakes of haste's baking on the tray beside the coffee service. When I brought it into the library Noel was sitting relaxed in his chair with closed eyes. The blanket was still wrapped around him but he was no longer shivering.

Here lad rouse yourself and welcome Home Mr Underwood declaimed and as Noel opened his eyes and saw me he flushed in embarrassed confusion. But Lillian interrupted his flustered excuses.

It would be a little more to the point if you doubled for Hebe your self, she told her husband caustically. That tray's heavy.

He gave her an elaborate comprehending wink as he crossed to me and took the tray from my hands.

"Excuse me Lady Fair he said. My manners slipped.

Get ready for some real coffee Noel Lillian said turning her husband an approving look. That last was a simple medicine. But this—we don't know what Mrs Graham can do with a coffee pot.

Indeed I do Noel said happily his self possession restored by Lillian's thoughtful care. And I must stay. Keep your people up any longer. If you don't need me any longer I'll go to Grandpa but not before I've had my coffee—he smiled shyly at me.

I shot a quick inquiring look at Lillian received an assenting answer, and spoke authoritatively.

You'd go nowhere tonight except upstairs to Mr Graham's room. Mr Underwood will see that you're fitted out with everything necessary.

But Noel protested slowly. That will mean that I shall be here tomorrow. I thought you didn't wish me to see Mary at present.

You won't see Mary I said quietly.

He sprang to his feet, throwing aside the blanket wrapped around him.

What are you keeping from me? he cried. Where is Mary? What has happened to her?

HOW TO FIGHT EXCESS FAT

There are hard ways, like starvation, but fewer and fewer employ them. There is a pleasant way, modern and scientific, which combats the cause. A vast number of people now use it. And the slender figures now seen everywhere are largely due to that.

That method is embodied in Marmola prescription tablets. People have used them for 30 years—millions of boxes of them. And every body, in almost every circle, sees the change. New beauty, new health, new vitality.

Each box of Marmola contains the formula, also the scientific reasons for results. So users have no fear of harm. Learn the facts about Marmola because of the good it has done. Ask your druggist—now—for a $1 box with the book. Then decide.

IF you have the responsibility of looking after the family car, there are some things you ought to know about motor oil. Things which nobody has cared to talk about before.

Oil must meet four requirements, engineers say, if lubrication is to be both complete and thorough. Motor oil must provide—the 4 essentials of complete and proper lubrication

1. LOW CARBON CONTENT
2. NON-FOULING CARBON
3. IDEAL BODY AT ALL OPERATING TEMPERATURES
4. LOW POUR POINT

Thousands of automobile owners have found that there is one oil—Shell Motor Oil—which has all four of these characteristics.

Many oils, otherwise good lubricants, produce excessive carbon of a hard and flinty nature. But Shell Motor Oil forms little carbon, 20 to 33 per cent less than most oils.

And the little carbon which it forms is soft, fluffy and non-fouling. Instead of accumulating inside a motor, this carbon blows away with the exhaust gases.

Shell Motor Oil has ideal body at all operating temperatures. That means it has courage and a fighting heart . . . it won't break down and cause trouble through long, hard service. You may never need to drive sixty miles an hour, but it's good to know you can with complete safety to your engine.

And Shell Motor Oil has a low pour point to make starting easy in cold weather.

Regular users of Shell Motor Oil tell of marked reduction in carbon removal jobs. They report amazing trouble free performance. Naturally, they enjoy lowered operating costs and have fewer repair bills.

The quality which makes such satisfactory performance possible, is due to two things: the selection of the crude petroleum which forms the base of Shell Motor Oil, and the refining process which prepares that crude for use.

Shell's vast oil fields produce a great quantity of crude oil from which Shell selects its lubricating stock. And the refining process developed and used exclusively by Shell, prepares this crude in a very special way. Then Shell Motor Oil passes 259 tests before it is sealed for shipment from the refinery.

STOP AT THE SIGN OF THE SHELL

You'll find courteous attendants who will be glad to drain the crankcase of your car and refill with the right amount and correct grade of Shell Motor Oil. The familiar yellow and red service stations are convenient everywhere.

If you have a car, but no husband...

The business woman who drives a car should be particularly concerned with the economy of operation and the continuous trouble free service which the use of Shell Motor Oil assures. Remember, Shell is one motor oil which combines all the essentials of complete and thorough lubrication.

Women like 400 "Extra Dry" Shell Gasoline because it starts quickly and delivers the extra ounces of power when needed. Ought to cost more, but it doesn't.

SHELL MOTOR OIL has the 4 essentials of complete and proper lubrication

SHOW SHOPPING With JACK or JILL

WHO KILLED Mrs. Bellamy? Twelve of the best known people of Stephens have been sitting with Sue Ives, wife of Dallas Ives, prosecuting attorney, as jurors in the case and they will probably be sitting on the witness stand.

The story is gripping from start to finish and proves what wealth, position, pull and influence can do. Sue Ives, Joy and Bellamy, Kenneth Thompson admit they want to face the chair on the night of the murder and they see the body of Stephens' wife lying on the floor and did not notify the police. Pat Ives almost that he did have a clandestine appointment with Mrs. Bellamy at the cottage but did not go because he found it had the note which Mrs. Bellamy had written him.

Charles B. Middleton as the district attorney brings some very realistic gestures into the story in his prosecution of the case and Charles Hill Mailes as the defense attorney is nothing, if not professional. A surprise witness who comes forward just as the case is presented to the jury clears the situation to the point of acquitting Sue Ives and Bellamy but the implications remain.

Betty Bronson and Edward Nugent as the girl and boy reporters relieve the tenseness of the picture with their whispered comments and opinions as the case develops and one is bound to be interested in the development of their friendship.

With the exception of the judge who some doesn't register as good in talking parts in the picture are commendable. Fortunately the judge doesn't talk long and one is interested in what he has to say rather than how he says it. It is a picture not to be missed.

THE story of The Bellamy Trial is written by Frances Noyes Hart. The picture was directed by Mervyn LeRoy, with titles by Joe Farnham and photography by Arthur Miller.

George Dewey Washington sings a group of three songs which are well worth hearing, and Jane Gerhardt and entertains with some songs of blues. The all talking comedy Fitous Revue is really a comedy and the songs do not jar.

Junior High Pupils Score Hit in "The Charm School"

...e difficulties which a young ...looking man would have ...makes up his mind to teach the girls of his recently inherited private school charm, instead of mathematics and history, are in "The Charm School," presented last night and tonight by a cast of students from the freshman class at Central Junior High school.

The applause given the cast last night showed that the audience was interested and appreciative of the efforts of the freshmen in putting the play across. The play was written for senior high school or college boys and girls, but the freshmen must be given credit for the way in which they handled the roles.

One of the reasons the play can be acted by students in the first year of high school is that it offers parts full of youthful exuberance characteristic of students of this age.

The play was directed by Miss Isabelle Stump, and produced by special arrangement with Samuel French of New York. The three acts are set in the room of the boys in New York and the main hall of the Fairview School for Girls.

The cast of characters was as follows: Paul Hunt, "Austin Bowne"; Donald Lindsey, "David MacKenzie"; Jack Hudson, "George Boyd"; Jay Howser, "Jim Simpkins"; Donald Williamson, "Tim Simpkins"; Merl Zeis, "Homer Johns"; Miss Wilma Watt, "Elsie Beardsley"; Miss Esther Tosliff, "Miss Hays"; Miss Grace Marie Staker, "Miss Curtis"; Miss Melba Biggert, "Sally Boyd"; Miss Martha Graham, "Muriel Doughty"; Miss Margaret Earley, "Ethel Spelvin"; Miss Josephine Zeisler, "Ali Mercier"; Miss Geraldine Wick, "Lillian Stafford"; Miss Eva Endsley, "Madge Kent"; Miss Mary Linscott, "Dotsie, a junior."

Wilson Jarcox acted as stage manager, Hibert McCartney, assistant, Junior Clay, property manager, John Laugly, assistant, and Richard Morgan, business manager.

Furniture for the production was loaned through the courtesy of the Leunon Furniture Co.

Intermissions were made especially interesting and entertaining by the Central Junior High school orchestra, assisted by members of the Vernon Junior High School orchestra, under the direction of T. R. Evans, supervisor of music in the public schools.

PEOPLES FINED $500 IN DRY LAW CHARGE

Man Arrested After Officer Fires on Auto Found Guilty in All-Day Trial

Easton Peoples, whose auto proved even less bullet proof than his automobile, was fined $500 on a charge of illegal possession of intoxicating liquor by Judge William R. Martin in municipal court yesterday afternoon. He was ordered committed to the county jail until the fine is paid.

Peoples was arrested by police last Monday a week ago following a shooting fray on North Main st. in which Patrolman E. C. Macken fired five shots at a Buick coach in which Peoples is alleged to have been driving. Peoples failed to stop at the officer's command and later attempted to run down the patrolman. All five of the shots fired by the officer took effect in the wheels, fenders and body of the car.

Seeks To Prove Alibi

In his testimony at the hearing yesterday Peoples said that he was at home at the time of the shooting, which occurred shortly after 5 o'clock on Sunday morning, March 10. He also testified that the Buick coach, which belonged to his mother, was stolen from the garage during the night.

The bullet ridden car was found in the north end of the city by police several hours after the shooting. Search for the car started when Peoples' wife called police headquarters to report that the car was stolen. A gallon jar containing a small quantity of alleged liquor was found in the abandoned machine.

People's testimony was contradicted when Patrolman Macken stated on the witness stand that he positively recognized occupants of the machine as Peoples and his wife while he was charging to the side of the car before he started shooting.

All-Day Trial

The trial started early yesterday morning and continued until late in the afternoon. A jury which had been demanded by Peoples was dismissed by Judge Martin on the ground that the prisoner was not entitled to a jury trial under the charge. The trial was originally set for last Monday but was continued when one of the state's witnesses failed to appear.

Attorney Homer E. Johnson represented Peoples. Police Prosecutor Cortez Patton prosecuted the case.

JINX HANGS ON

Restaurant Remodeled After Fire Again Visited by Blaze

THE fire jinx that destroyed Frances Ruzzo's Asiatic Italian restaurant on South Main st several weeks ago apparently has not left. Fire that broke out in the kitchen of the remodeled restaurant early this morning did little damage however.

A gas line in the wall of one of the kitchen ranges ignited inflammable materials that had been used in cleaning the stove, sending a cloud of smoke to the ceiling. The only damage from the blaze was an 11 by 8 inch section of the newly decorated wall and ceiling. The blaze was extinguished with chemicals from the chief's car.

Red Peppers Heat Ends Chest Colds!

An congestion in the chest is dangerous! The best thing you can do is apply the heat of plain red peppers. Nature has put into red peppers a peculiar kind of heat that is at once penetrating and soothing. Without hurting, you feel the heat seems to reach right into the congested spot break up the tightness and restore free circulation. That means the end of any chest cold. This marvelous red peppers heat is continued in handy form in Rowles Red Pepper Rub, a delightful rub made from the real red peppers. Rub it on at the first sign of a chest cold. All druggists sell Red Pepper Rub in convenient jars. Be sure it's Rowles.—Adv

Ritzy Rosalie

SINCE Rosalie is just learning to pilot an airplane, she will have to be content to fly to her favorite haunt sitting in a comfortable chair in the cabin. And since she is going to be in the cabin she doesn't need to be dressed any warmer than if she were on a train or in a closed automobile. If the ship should take a nose-dive into some farmer's creek, Rosalie would at least be appropriately dressed. She's wearing a wool jersey swimming suit under her woolen skirt and jacket, the latter lined with silk to match the dots in the swimming suit. She may also wear the skirt belt in the water. LET us be up and doing. March days mark the beginning of gardening activities. There are preparations to be made for the coming summer season. The garden calendar contains days for pruning, cleaning up and spraying. While the ground is still freezing at night is a good time to make an application of bone meal to the lawn. Areas to be seeded to grass should be worked into shape and seeded as early as possible. All established lawns should be raked clean and rolled after the frost is out. Vines growing against house foundations have not the best soil conditions for growth. They should be fertilized preferably with bone meal or well-rotted manure.

Pruning

Spring pruning of the hardy roses should be done before the growth starts. Cutting back the late blooming hydrangea paniculata will encourage new, vigorous growth and larger flowers. The Rose of Sharon, butterfly bush and snowberry also may be cut back in spring. While the leaves are still off the shrubs old wood can be readily seen and removed and the plants thinned where desirable. A general cutting back of the spring-blooming shrubs, such as spirea, is not recommended. You will lose the blossoms if you do. Better wait until after the blossoms are gone and then prune.

Spraying

The days for dormant spraying will soon be over. All trees and shrubs subject to attacks of San Jose scale should be sprayed with one of the soluble oil mixtures before the buds swell. It takes 48 hours to smother these pests. Any repairs for parts needed for tree spraying outfit should be secured now. The time for more spraying is close at hand.

Make a habit of heeling in your nursery stock the instant it arrives. Stock that is allowed to be around in the wind and sun is certain to show heavy losses. Hardy stock may be moved and transplanted as soon as the ground has thawed out. Early planting is desirable. A shallow covering over the shrub bed to bare the mulching may be done at the earliest opportunity.

Major Owston, sportsman and soldier of both war and fortune, finds himself in the employ of Hews and his first night at Breezeley Mansion leads him to an encounter with a gang of criminals of whom Joseph is the leader.

Major Owston's work is to bring to justice, but preferably death, Joseph, and this mission leads him to homes of people of prominence in London, a fashionable night club, auction houses as well as the less fashionable walks of life. A transaction with a Chinese, in which the major is one of two who negotiate for the purchase of an one-eyed Buddha, which Hews states will end his purchase of treasures lands him in the midst of a battle in which Joseph and his men, known as the Wolves, sub the patrons of a fashionable hotel.

That there is honor even among thieves is proven when Joseph sends for the major to ask a favor, which the latter does not grant, but which Joseph takes. The abduction of Beatrice adds mystery to the story and the presence of Rachel, a girl of Joseph's world, adds interest throughout the story which is one to be placed with the classics of mystery novels.

"The Ladder of Folly" Finds Favor in England

THE plunge of innocence into sophistication is woven into a delightful story, "The Ladder of Folly," by Muriel Hine. Ann Massingby, the heroine, a charming girl, delicate, sensitive, beautiful, village rectory-bred, sets her feet on the ladder that is the big modern city's dazzling social world. It is London where she tastes the bitter-sweetness of life and like a butterfly unfolds from her cocoon.

She falls under the influence of a cousin, Gerda, who prevails on her to share an apartment with her in Mayfair, and who introduces her to the denizens of the city night club life among whom Gerda plays a prominent part.

When Luke Osborn, an American, Ann has felt strongly attracted to earlier, appears, Gerda frars his good influence on Ann. Dramatically, Ann and Luke leaves a night club just before it is raided, but Gerda and her lover are caught in it. Ann's eyes open to Gerda's true character and she leaves the world of Mayfair, while Luke has gone his way, disappointed in the change that has come over her.

In the country again Ann plays for a time with a young American whom she had known in London, but when he is shown in his true colors she finds herself surrounded by the wreck of the gay life that had opened before her. In a remarkable conclusion Ann is shown in a curious state of hysteria like paralysis, from which it is Luke's return that saves her.

"ONE MAN'S WAR" is listed as the best and most intimate story of the Lafayette Escadrille in action that can be had. Its authors are Lieutenant Bert Hall, who was one of the original seven fliers in the Escadrille, and Lieutenant John J. Niles, also an American aviator. Lieutenant Hall, who is now in China, was learning to fly in France when the Balkan war started and it was there he first took part in war from the air. Many rare photographs of the Lafayette fliers illustrate the book.

More than 600 men last night heard the Dominican preacher speak on the Importance of Saving [illegible] using the text of St Matthew What doth it profit a man to gain the whole world and suffer the loss of his own soul Father Olson declared that Our Divine Saviour made it in language that a child of reasoning understanding that our most important duty our chief business here upon earth is to work for our immortal souls salvation

Path to Attainment

In order to attain his divinely appointed destiny—everlasting happiness the speaker declared that man must cooperate with Gods grace serving Him during these days of probation

For example he continued During the past year have you been serving God? Have you been living God? Between the serving and the loving of God and the non serving and non loving of God there is no medium No man says our Lord can have two masters During the past year you have been doing one of two things Either you have been really and honestly working out the salvation of your souls—or with daring and recklessness and in contempt of Gods commandments—and to the [illegible] of Gods graces—you have been [illegible] and endangering the [illegible] of your souls making God [illegible] eternal [illegible]

BY BOB ELLIOTT

HARDING HiY and Marion Y Indus emerged with victories last night in the final games of the first round of the Class A division of the Marion county amateur basketball tournament being played at the Marion Y M C A HiY sprang the biggest surprise of the tourney so far by walloping the highly touted Business College quintet 39 to 18 while Y Indus experienced little difficulty in handing the St Mary's Alumni a 47 to 26 reverse

The first half of the Collegian HiY clash was close with the high school five on the long end of an eight to three score at the first quarter and 12 to 8 at the half In the third period the HiY out scored the losers by 16 points to lead 27 to 11 The last quarter was a repetition of the previous one with the winning team outscoring their opponents 12 to 7

The Y Indus five led its rivals all the way leading 8 to 7 at the end of the first quarter. The half ended 16 to 7 Y Indus had the score tripled at the three quarter mark leading 30 to 10 The Irish out scored the winners in the final period 16 to 17

Gillis, Walker Leads

Vic Gillis and Punch Walker tied for scoring honors for the first game last night the HiY forwards scoring 10 points each All of these 20 points came in the second half The collegians held Gillis well in check during the first two periods but he got loose in the last half so many times it began to get monotonous Bill Roush also showed up good for the winning five, scoring three field goals on shots past the center of the floor Bob Peadon led the losers with nine points scored on three fielders and three fouls The losers attack was lessened to a large degree when Harold Fetter went out on fouls at the start of the second quarter

Bill Lowe Y Indus guard couldn't miss last night as he caged six field goals to lead his team to victory over the Irish five Nearly all of Lowe's points came on short shots from the side Sometimes he would throw them over his head and then a one handed heave that left the St Mary's guards wondering what it was all about Cline was second high for the winners with nine counters Ballenger led the Irish attack with three goals from the field and two charity tosses Hogan and Key were right behind him with seven points each

Class B Starts

All of the second round of class A and the entire first round of class B making a total of eight games will be run off in tonight's sessions of the tourney All of the B games will be played on the upper floor with the A games on the lower gym B will start at 7 o'clock with 45 minutes being allowed for a game Every team both in A and B have been requested to be on the floor at the half of the game preceding so they may get shooting practice Class A will start at 7 30 with 30 minutes being given for one game Close games in A and B both are on tap for tonight with the A program being headlined by the HiY Caledonia and Steam Shovel Clodhoppers games and B featured by the Central Junior Vocational battle Francis Bacon and Dewey Bonher will handle class A tonight while Bud Lewis will be in charge of B affairs

OHIO CAGE CHAMPS GRANTED HEARING BY ATHLETIC BOARD

To Take Up Case of St. Xavier Entering Catholic Court Meet

COLUMBUS March 22—Request of Dayton Stivers high school to enter the national high school basketball tournament in Chicago April 1 2 and 3 will be given a special hearing Saturday by the board of control of the Ohio High School Athletic association

Under a recent rule adopted by the association last fall and put into effect Jan 15 the Ohio high school basketball season officially ended March 16 with the playing of the state finals and members were not permitted to take part in games or tournaments after that date Stivers however is applying for special permission since it won the state Class A championship

Rule Is Given

The rule as stated by the association is as follows According to rule 58 which was adopted by the members of the association the first semester to become effective Jan 15 1929 interscholastic basketball shall end with the playing of the state finals March 16 This means that members of the state association may not take part in basketball tournaments held without the state after that date Our members cannot participate in the national tournament held at Chicago under the auspices of the University of Chicago nor the National Parochial high school tournament at Chicago as both of these tournaments are held after March 16

Another matter of high importance to be discussed at Saturday's meeting is the participation of St Xavier high of Cincinnati in the national Catholic tournament at Loyola university Chicago

Both St Xavier and St Vincent of Akron expected to enter the tourney and both were warned by Commissioner H R Townsend, that if they played membership in the association would be forfeited and they would become outlaws St Vincents withdrew from the tourney but St Xavier did not, and won its first game over St Francis of Council Bluffs Iowa on Wednesday March 20 Thus they have violated the state rule and are subject to be ousted from the state association

If Stivers is given permission however to enter the national tournament on April 1 2 and 3 however not only can be done with the Cincinnati school But if the board refuses to grant Stivers permission St Xavier will undoubtedly lose its membership

You never can tell Even clear profit may be under a cloud

HORNSBY CRASHES HOMER IN CONTEST

LOS ANGELES Cal March 22—After [illegible] been defeated twice in succession by the Chicago Cubs the Detroit Tigers were determined to keep out and win their game Hornsby and his teammates proved themselves worth for the Tiger outfit yesterday by trouncing them 5 to 4

Hornsby was the fireworks of the game driving in 3 of the Cubs runs with a homer double and a single in five trips to the plate Marty McManus also knocked out a home run and batted in the Detroit teams four tallies

OHIO STATE TO TRY NEW IDEAS AT MEET

Three Events To Be Run Off at Once in Ohio Stadium

COLUMBUS March 22—Novelties in track meets will be attempted by Ohio State university athletic officials here on May 11 when two dual meets and one triangular affair will be run off at the Ohio stadium One set of officials will be in charge and the entire program is to be completed within the length of time usually allotted to a single meet

Mt Union Otterbein and Capital University teams will engage in the triangular meet while Ohio State and Indiana will stage one of the dual meets Ohio Wesleyan which has a meet scheduled on that date with Denison has agreed to participate in the other dual meet provided Denison officials are agreeable Ohio State athletic heads have agreed to prorate all receipts among the visitors

This innovation should appeal to track and field enthusiasts according to athletic officials here At a dual meet there is ordinarily a lapse of 10 or 15 minutes between events they point out

With three meets on the same track the program will be continuous and will consist of heats only There will be three races in every event except possible the two mile race

FINAL TOURNEY GAMES

The final round of the Green Camp high school interclass basketball tournament will be played Saturday night with the seniors and sophomores clashing for the boys title while the girls will be represented by the junior and senior classes

CRITICS LOOK FOR DETROIT TO FINISH AROUND TOP PLACE

Tiger Team To Be Faster Under Direction of Bucky Harris

LOS ANGELES March 22—Manager Bucky Harris, serving his first season as boss of the Detroit Tigers following several weeks of intensive training here declares he is quite satisfied with the team he will go to bat with The new leader is highly enthusiastic over his prospects but refuses to become dogmatic in his predictions He is content to stand on the cryptic statement Well he up there

The players are as players are apt to be in the spring more enthusiastic Their definitely pick themselves to win the pennant Calm critics however who have watched the development of the team are hopeful that the Tigers will get into the first division Even this would be a distinct triumph for the fiery manager for the Tigers finished sixth last season

Team To Be Fast

In at least two particulars the Tigers will be stronger New and youthful recruits make it certain that the outfit will be fast This will be something new and will furnish a big contrast to the customary heavy footed team that has plodded slowly along for Detroit

Another helpful circumstance is that the Tigers will have three good southpaw pitchers if early indications are verified Whitehill potentially a great southpaw but who has an indifferent season last year appears to have returned to the form that made him famous two years ago Vide the veteran National leaguer is showing fine form and appears to be a fixture while Frank Barnes a youngster obtained from Houston has impressed Manager Bucky to such an extent that he will be retained and it is expected he will be used in turn whenever a southpaw is needed

Outfield Strong

In Stone Rice and Johnson the outfit will have one of the fastest and best throwing outfields in the racket Collectively they should hit better than 300 Heilmann at first and Schulte at short are experiments but both look like masters of the situation in training camp at least Especially is Schulte the sensational Texas league product impressive at short Gehringer and McManus who will look after the second and third basing respectively are recognized as capable in their positions In all the infield will not only be faster, but it will hit harder than any infield the Tigers have had in years

Manager Harris has not yet decided definitely upon his pitching staff but in addition to the three left handers already named he will carry seven right handers picked from an array of about a dozen promising candidates

CARL LIND'S HEAVY HITTING WILL HELP

NEW ORLEANS March 22—Carl Lind Cleveland Indians second baseman who was regarded as one of the best finds of the season which he broke into the league he played last year is again heavily depended to be even better in the 1929 campaign Lind is hitting consistently in spring training and fielding his position The Indians held only a light workout yesterday but are expecting a more strenuous one today

Jimmy Favored To Win Listed as One Punch Fighters

NEW YORK March 22—Jimmy McLarnin and Ray Miller punch gamblers both will shoot it out again tonight in the good old reliable way so satisfactory to the days when Tombstone was Tombstone and the west a place where a man could enjoy the right to be unfettered unhampered and unfed like some of the tragedy will be Madison Square Garden where the principal promise to spend the greater part of the evening dropping hand grenades in each other's beards and the chances seem good that they will run out of beards some time before they run out of grenades

Jimmy one punch men this pair New York has to go all the way back to the Dempsey and Firpo at Kansas City years ago to find a counterpart

The last time old McLarnin was shot down in the order the bout being stopped because of the [illegible] cut under one eye It was the only knock out of Jimmy's career but the right hand that leveled Terris Kaplan fields McGraw and Gleb will be drawing a load on Miller's chin again and the fistic New York is convinced that the young man won't go wrong

It has made him a favorite at odds of 2½ to 1 for no reason at all except that Miller money has turned up very absent

GERMANY REJECTS REPARATION PLAN

Tie Up with Allied War Debts Reason for Refusal

BERLIN March — Germany has tentatively rejected the allied reparations plan and asked for a new report on the plan and allied war debts at the London conference this afternoon

The allied reparation experts have held that Germany not only has the capacity to pay but annually a sum sufficient to make up the allied war debts to the United States Great Britain to repay its loans

So far as the German government is informed the allies insist that Germany pay annuities beginning with 1 000 000 000 marks and rising to 2 000 000 000 marks for 37 years to cover both reparations and allied war debts to America

The reparation allocation would then be paid out the allies demand that Germany continue to pay 1 000 000 000 marks annually for an additional 25 years to cover allied payments to the United States

Germany is thus asked to pay as long as the allied pay America This is now 59 years

To Make Even Inexpensive Glass and China Sparkle

Simple New Way Does Wonders And Is Kind To Pretty Hands—Use Any Ordinary Soap

Even the most inexpensive table china and glassware can be made to look far better than its price in a simple way It can be given the brilliancy and sparkle of the most costly kinds and glassware particularly is judged by its sparkle

Simply add one teaspoonful of the cleansing preparation called CLEMALENE to your water Use the same soap you ordinarily do but use only ONE-FOURTH the usual quantity Wash as usual

This preparation is a grease dissolvent, while soap is, strictly speaking, a grease. Thus it gives shine and sparkle while soap often leaves a greasy film that's hard to get rid of even with the most careful drying

Most hotels use this method to make glass and china gleam Housewives like it not only for this reason but because it acts to soften and whiten skin faces of the hands

Results are surprising Try it. Get a any grocery store in 10c or 25c package Just ask your grocer for CLEMALENE

How husbands can improve their dispositions

"Of course I found that replacing caffein beverages with Postum enabled me to sleep better, and kept me from feeling so nervous and fagged out.

"But Postum did more in my case. Its use in place of caffein improved my disposition amazingly! Heretofore, on going home in the evenings, I felt extremely irritable. Only by keeping closest guard over my tongue and actions could I refrain from outbursts of unjustifiable temper. Jaded nerves, overstimulated by caffein, were probably to blame.

"Whatever the cause, my disposition is now greatly improved, since Postum has replaced caffein beverages in my diet. Needless to say, I continue to use Postum and like its flavor exceedingly."

CLIFTON D. DUSH
10903 Clifton Blvd., Cleveland, Ohio

POSTUM'S wonderful flavor and wholesome after-effects have made it the favorite mealtime drink in more than 2,000,000 American homes. It is made of roasted whole wheat and bran—no trace of any artificial stimulant in it. Nothing to irritate the nerves, to disturb sleep, or affect digestion. And Postum is so good!—with a rich, distinctive flavor that millions prefer!

Postum costs much less than other mealtime drinks—only one-half cent a cup. Order from your grocer today—try it for thirty days, in place of caffein beverages! Then, on the basis of results, decide if you'll ever go back to caffein!

PUPILS ADVANCE IN SCHOOL RADIO TEST

20-Point Increase Registered in Central Junior High Average

... of the second test on School ... Air programs, given yesterday ... Junior High school, will ... 20 points higher than the average of 60 made on the first examination, W. E. Orcutt, principal, said yesterday.

The test was made in the broadcasting from the session of the Ohio house of representatives this week, and the ninth grade average in the papers received in the office at 3:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon showed that the median would be about 80. The eighth grade median will probably be about 75.

This morning, Walter Damrosch broadcast from New York City on a school of the air music program, "Nature in Music". The questions which will be asked the students in an examination later will be as follows: "What sounds do we hear in a forest?"; "What do we hear in 'Sounds in a Forest,' Wagner?"; "What does Schumann's 'Evening Song' express?"; "Where is Fingal's Cave?"; "What does the first part of the overture describe?"; "What does the second part of the overture describe?"; "How Does Neptune appear?"; "What instruments represent the conch shells with which the tritons announce the approach of Neptune?"

THUMB TWIDDLING INDEX TO ARNOLD

Moves at Slow Pace When at Ease, Rapidly When Nervous

WOOSTER, March 22—Twiddle bat!

Twiddle bat!
Twiddle your thumbs
Till the sun goes down—

That sonnet must have been written expressly for Elias Arnold, who with his son, Arthur, stood trial in common pleas court here recently for the kidnaping of four-year-old Melvin Horst from the streets of Orrville on the night of Dec. 27.

From the time Elias, who is 63 years of age, entered the courtroom until he walked out, he continually twiddled his thumbs.

That was the only way that the elder Arnold expressed his emotions. His expression was stern, almost forbidding, during all of the trial. Newspapers heralded the fact that he showed no emotion, but the reporters apparently failed to watch the man's hands.

Occasionally he lifted his hand to flick his white mustache but again he folded his shaky hands and started one thumb revolving over the other.

When all was well, Elias turned his thumbs at a slow pace but when the attorneys entered into a heated argument or something unusual developed, the thumb twiddling went on at a rapid pace.

After the jury of seven men and five women returned the "guilty verdict" Elias's thumbs outdid all records for thumb-twiddling.

If the aged man, who faces a 1-to-20 years term in prison, is sentenced to the Ohio state penitentiary, he will have plenty of time to indulge in that pastime, for newcomers at the big state prison are confined in the "idle-house" for the first few days.

PALM SUNDAY SERVICE IS PLANNED AT WALDO

Palm Sunday will be observed with appropriate services Sunday in St. John's Reformed church of Waldo, the Rev. L. F. Lahr has announced. As a part of the services, the following young people will be confirmed: Miss Susie Mae Zieg, Miss Florence M. Berkel, Miss Cleo C. Haas, Miss Viola Kramer, Miss Marguerite Eichorn, Miss Esther Wetzel, Miss Emma Fischer and Kenneth Eichorn.

HUNGARIAN FAMILY ALL BORN IN RAILWAY COACH

BUDAPEST.—All four babies of Mariska Horvath, wife of a Hungarian peasant, were born in a railway carriage, the last one only a few days ago in a passenger-train near Kaposvar, where she intended to visit the market.

The family, which has shown so much attachment to the State-railways and so much speed in growing, was rewarded by a free-ticket valid for this year on the line between their home village and Kaposvar.

INTRUDERS MAKE "BEER PARLOR" OF SCHOOL ROOM

BOONE, Ia.—Both police and school authorities here are looking for the person or persons who broke into the Franklin school and "threw a beer party in the principal's office."

The mysterious prowlers, who left the office plentifully decorated with cigaret butts and empty beer bottles, are promised a severe penalty if apprehended.

MAN ASKS NEWSPAPER TO "RESURRECT" HIM

LE MARS, Ia. — Richard ("Butch") Stewart is tired of being taken for a "ghost." He has asked a newspaper here, which published the report of his "death" to "resurrect" him. Word it seems, had come from Sioux Falls, S. D., that he had been shot and killed.

"This is a fine thing for a man to have to live down," said "Butch."

You can make these foods taste better!

Pillsbury's Best Flour gives a delicate, unmistakably finer flavor to everything you bake. There is a sound scientific reason for this. Certain kinds of wheat have more flavor than others, and make a richer flour. The food editors of women's magazines—women who have studied baking all their lives—will tell you this same thing—that flour has a lot to do with the flavor of the foods you bake.

Pillsbury's Best Flour is made only from carefully selected, full-flavored wheat. It will improve the flavor of all your baking. Try it yourself—bake your next cake or biscuits with Pillsbury's Best—notice how much better they taste.

He said he got her beds all littered with hay and it didn't freeze she would blame him and if she didn't have them covered and her spittoons and everything froze she would blame him and she laughed and called him a coward. So then he told her he didn't think there would be a freeze and put on his coat and kissed her good-by.

We had fathers and mothers then that [illegible] and they knew when we had acted mean and [illegible] and they knew when we were ashamed of it.
